A free lecture was given in Bayless park yesterday afternoon concerning the causes of alcohol. The speaker was a gentleman named Coffman, from Illinois.

C. W. Coughney was so unfortunate as to lose his pocketbook somewhere between Mr. Welch's store and the City mill. It contained $66, besides some little articles by which its identity can easily be established.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul have posters out announcing rates east as follows: Chicago $4.25, Rock Island, $1.00, Davenport $1.00, Signourney $1.00, Des Moines $1.00.

Yesterday morning's passenger train over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road was the longest east-bound passenger train that ever left this city. It was composed of fourteen cars, including three Pullman sleepers.

The beer garden is said to have kept up a noisy time until 11 o'clock Sunday morning. A row is reported as having taken place, and some of the police went up to investigate, but found everything comparatively quiet, and the saloon part closed.

In the district court the Coffman case will probably be called up to-day. Saturday was occupied in hearing the case of the elder Ketcham, charged with selling mortgaged property, the case of the younger Ketcham having resulted in a conviction.

The death of A. B. Ellis, which occurred in Omaha, awakens sorrow and sympathy among many friends on this side of the river as well. Mr. Ellis was for years a resident of this city, and was a member of the Congregational church. He leaves a wife and two daughters, the eldest being the wife of Frank Sears.

Mr. Mosler, who so unexpectedly sold his real estate and his real estate, was brought before Judge Aylesworth Saturday to be interrogated concerning what he had done with the money he had received from these sales. Some of his creditors being anxious to learn why they had not received some of the proceeds. The questioning did not result in much light being thrown on the subject. Mr. Mosler explained that he transferred some real estate to pay for her money borrowed from her some time ago. Other money had been used in paying off some others.

Home Happenings.
Letters have been received from some of the trustees of the home endorsing the suggestions made, that citizens be invited to associate themselves with the board in carrying forward an investigation, and that such investigation be held at some more suitable and convenient place than the home. There is some talk of using the building recently occupied by Cook & Morgan, Mr. Bloomer having offered it, and generously offered, also, to provide seats for the convenience of those attending.

The basis of representation will be one delegate for each township or voting precinct, and an additional delegate for every fifty votes or fraction thereof cast for each party. William Larrabee at the last general election. This will entitle the several townships to representations as follows:

Mr. Lemen went to Dow City Saturday, it is said, for the purpose of holding a conference with the secretary of the board, and with some others interested in the institution.

One of the girls at the home, Belle Walters, aged about eleven years, whose mother lives at Mondakine, skipped out of the home Saturday night, and sought protection and shelter in the home of Mr. Nichols, on Avenue D, near Seventh street. The girl was crying, and told some bitter experiences growing out of her life in the home. Her story was in accord with that related by others. She claimed to have been beaten and otherwise abused. After she had left the home, some boys from the home, one large boy and one the son of the manager, appeared at the police headquarters and to asked have a policeman go and get the girl, saying that a man had run her off. The police refused to interfere. The girl said to be willing to tell her story to the investigating committee, provided that she can be assured of protection, and the claim is made that others of the children suffer from a like fear of trouble if they tell what they really know.

The New Salary.
Under the new law in regard to county attorneys, the county boards have decided at their June meeting as to the amount of salary to be paid that officer. The county board here accordingly on Saturday brought up the matter, and after some discussion fixed the salary at $1,000. This is thought by most to be a low figure, but it is to be secured the right kind of an attorney for the increased responsibility and labor. The county attorney is now made an elective office, and the people will be called on to select a $1,000 man next fall.

Makepeace Makes Out.
The prisoners in the county jail at Denison broke out on Saturday morning before daybreak, the notorious Colonel Makepeace, of Dunlap, being among those who escaped. Makepeace has been trying to get out of jail on a writ of habeas corpus, but in this case seems a cold chisel is the more powerful instrument. This is the second jailbreak in Denison in a short time.

She Thought It Time to Take a Turn-ble and Get a Sure Grip on Some One.
"Oh, darling Ethel," said the young man, as he moved nearer the blushing maiden, "you really do not love me as I do you, or you would not be so cold."
"I am not cold, Hubert," murmured she.
"Yes, you are. Here I have loved you madly for months, and to-night I have told you so, and yet you refuse to let me kiss your sweet lips, only once to seal our compact."
"It would not be right, Hubert," she sighed.
"Yes, it would be my darling one. It would not harm you, you would be told to the cold car of the world; it would be a token I should never forget. Do give me one, just one, my affianced bride."
"Well, Hubert," said she, as her liquid eyes beamed love to his, "if I give you this token, will you give me one to keep near my heart?"
"Anything, darling, any token you may wish."
"Then I am yours," she said, and sank upon his breast while he, rained burning kisses upon her willing lips.
"And now, darling, what token do you wish?"
"Only your name, dearest, your name on a piece of paper. It is only an old, old, romantic, yet perhaps a foolish, girl's idea of mine, but I want your dear name that I may carry it in my bosom, and gaze at it and kiss it when you are away. Just put your name here."
And Hubert did so only too gladly, and she placed the paper in her bosom, and when she reached her room she took it out and gazed on it. And about his name where he didn't happen to see, and he placed this legend, which had been written just before he called:
EVANSVILLE, May 28, 1886. This night I promised to marry Ethel, and I have bound myself to do so to the time we mutually agreed on.
HUBERT MONTRAVES.
"Yes," she muttered to herself as she sank to rest on her pillow. "I think I've given him love. There have been too many ducks kissing and slobbering over me for the last five years, and I think it's time to take a tumble and get a sure grip on one."

A Sad Case of Poisoning. is that of any man or woman afflicted with disease or derangement of the liver, resulting in poisonous accumulations in the blood, scrofulous affections, skin diseases, and diseases of the kidneys, lungs or heart. These troubles can be cured only by going to the primary cause, and purging the blood. A sure condition. To accomplish this result speedily and effectually nothing has proved itself so efficacious as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which has never failed to do the work claimed for it, and never will.

JONES ON THE WAR-PATH.
His Reply to the Remarks of an Indianapolis Divine.
An Indianapolis dispatch of June 7 to The Cincinnati Enquirer says: "The revival meetings of Sam Small at the city hall this afternoon and evening were attended by immense crowds. The sermons were devoted to exhorting church members on the errors of their ways. Something of a sensation was caused to-night by the reading of a letter from Sam Jones, who will arrive to-morrow, answering the attack made upon him by Dr. Reuben Jeffery, pastor of First Baptist church of this city, in which he called the evangelist, among other things, a moral scavenger."
In his answer Mr. Jones says: "In April last, during the progress of a wonderful revival of grace in Columbus, Miss., while hundreds of men, women, youths, and college students were being converted to Christ, it was brought to my attention most plainly that some of our brethren of the Baptist faith were presenting an open and aggressive system of proselytism, especially among the younger people. They went so far as to confuse the minds and consciences of many converts and to imperil the peace of the church. In some instances the children of parents of other than the Baptist faith were urged, while thus absent from their homes and friends, to join the Baptist church, upon the positive statement that its mode of baptism alone could be to them the seal and sure witness of the soul's salvation. Others were led to understand that they would be damned if they were not immersed. They were thus led to doubt the reality of the religion of their fathers, mothers, and families from time immemorial, and in this dilemma to draw back from their professions to Christ. In this emergency of danger to so many souls, produced by a spirit so Jesuitically at variance with the union work of evangelism in which we were engaged, and which God was favoring so mightily, I indignantly protested against this species of proselytism."
In doing this Mr. Jones admits that he did say to the converts that if anyone approached them in an attempt to proselyte them by telling them that immersion is the only and exclusive form of Christian baptism, to tell them that Sam Jones says they are liars. In conclusion, he says:
"I make these statements for truth's sake, not for defense of my speech; for that, I conceive, needs no defense in face of the facts. My catholicity of Christian courtesy and confraternity needs no fictitious bolstering before the Christian people of this country. My language at all times I am willing to freely and fully submit in parallelism with that which gives its only pungency to the address of Rev. Mr. Jeffery."
The reading of the letter was loudly applauded by the audience.
